

Morning Review

Good morning, dear students and partners, I'm James Wilson.

Yesterday, NVIDIA's post market earnings report caused significant turmoil, with the stock plummeting by as much as 8%. This outcome was entirely in line with my predictions. On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, I presented the following view:

NVIDIA's earnings report was bound to be impressive, and the guidance for the next quarter should also be strong. However, given the extremely high market expectations, any slight disappointment would trigger an urgent risk-off strategy by investors. The focus wasn't on the earnings themselves but on whether the Blackwell chip would face further delays.

As it turned out, NVIDIA's second-quarter gross margin was negatively impacted by the low production of Blackwell material inventory, and the revenue forecast fell short of the market's most optimistic expectations. This has fueled concerns that NVIDIA's explosive growth might be slowing down. Additionally, the much-anticipated next-generation Blackwell chip production has indeed encountered obstacles, leading to a sharp drop in the company's stock price during after-hours trading.

NVIDIA's Blackwell design issues have been confirmed, with the company's CFO admitting yesterday that there are indeed production problems.

So, how should we assess the current market situation?

First, we must understand that the market is driven by short-term

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

expectations. Therefore, once the panic subsides, the market is likely to return to rationality. Next, we should shift our focus to the market's future concern—the U.S. economic situation.

The data shows:

The U.S. Q2 real GDP annualized quarter-over-quarter growth was revised up to 3%, from an initial estimate of 2.8%.

Initial jobless claims for the week ending August 24th decreased by 2,000, seasonally adjusted to 231,000.

The U.S. economy, particularly consumer spending, is showing a certain level of resilience. Combined with last week's unexpectedly sharp decline in initial jobless claims, this further solidifies the expectation that the Fed will only slightly reduce interest rates in September. This is bearish for stock indices but bullish for the dollar. A 25-basis-point rate cut in September is far below market expectations, as the current rebound was fueled by the anticipation of a more significant rate cut.

As a result, this will likely lead to an unwinding of the funds that drove the recent rally, and the stock market will face substantial selling pressure.

It's clear that the current U.S. stock market isn't offering opportunities to make substantial profits. And the purpose of investing is to make money. So today, I want to focus on a crucial point: How can you invest in a way that leads to life changing wealth?

Many of you know that I've said, "If you want to make big money in the investment market, achieve financial freedom, and elevate your social class, you must seize an opportunity that can change your destiny! Just like when I traded Tesla options."

At that time, I was referring to the Jackson Hole central bank meeting, predicting it would bring us returns of 300%—1000%! After seizing this opportunity, we indeed surpassed our target returns and successfully turned the tide against the Shark team, turning a defeat into a victory!

But did we achieve financial freedom? No, we didn't. Do you want to know why?

Because of responsibility—yes, you heard that right.

Before I achieved financial freedom through trading Tesla options, I was at the lowest point in my life. I didn't want to live a life of frugality, discomfort, being looked down upon, or lacking the respect I deserved. So, I hoped to change my destiny through my personal efforts, just like I'm now striving to win the title of the next Chief Practical Instructor. But I realized that playing it safe and making small trades only brings small gains—it wouldn't lead to financial freedom.

When I recognized that Tesla was on the brink of a historic opportunity, I made a decision after just one day of agonizing deliberation—a day filled with pain and uncertainty—I went all-in on Tesla! I leveraged every short-term asset I could muster and went full throttle on Tesla options! Many couldn't understand why I did this, but I trusted my judgment and knew that only by doing this could I achieve everything I wanted. I was seeking a sure thing and maximum investment returns!

The result? I achieved my goal! So, every time I look back on that period, I say to myself, “Thank you, James Wilson, you really are an extraordinary guy!”

But we’re different. The reason the Jackson Hole meeting didn’t help you achieve financial freedom is that I couldn’t tell you to go all-in on cryptocurrency contracts. I have to be responsible for you. After all, contracts carry risk. I can take risks—I can bear anything—but you and I are not the same. I cannot let you take on that risk. Do you understand what I mean?

In this highly competitive world, the financial titans at the top of the wealth pyramid easily navigate their way to success, thanks to their vast capital and resources. They have countless opportunities, extensive networks, and a diversified capital allocation that mitigates risk. But for me—an ordinary investor—these advantages are out of reach. For me, achieving a shift in social class isn't just a dream; it's a battle I must win. And the only way to win this battle is through the "all-in mentality."

Why must ordinary investors adopt the all-in mentality?

At first glance, going all-in may seem like a reckless gamble, but the wisdom behind it runs much deeper. For me, going all-in isn't about blind risk-taking; it's about seizing a prime opportunity with careful consideration and going all out in pursuit of maximum returns. In a world where resources are limited, you don't have the luxury of making multiple mistakes or slowly accumulating wealth. If you want to achieve a true shift in your social class, what you need isn't cautious, incremental investing, but a decisive, all-in effort that could change your fate.

In 2008, the global financial crisis swept across the world. For Elon Musk, it wasn't just an external economic storm—it was the most challenging period of his career. At that time, Musk's two passion projects, Tesla and SpaceX, were both facing existential threats. Tesla was struggling to bring its first electric sports car, the Roadster, to market, but production issues and severe financial shortages had pushed the company to the brink of bankruptcy. Meanwhile, SpaceX had experienced three failed rocket launches, and its fourth attempt was the company's last hope. If this launch failed, SpaceX would be finished.

Under such immense pressure, Musk was almost out of options. On the eve of Christmas, he was forced to make an almost impossible decision: Should he sacrifice one company to save the other, or should he risk everything and pour the last of his dwindling wealth into both projects, betting it all? At that moment, Musk was not only under tremendous financial strain but also facing a profound mental challenge. His personal life had hit rock bottom as well; he and his family were living in a small apartment, saving every penny to keep these two companies afloat.

Yet, Musk did not choose to retreat. He decided to go “all-in”—to commit every last bit of his resources and energy into Tesla's Roadster production and SpaceX's fourth rocket launch. It was a high-stakes gamble; he knew that if he failed, he would lose everything.

But Musk's all-in gamble paid off. SpaceX achieved a historic success on its fourth launch, which was followed by a $1.6 billion contract with NASA. This not only saved SpaceX but also laid the foundation for the future of private space exploration.

From Steve Jobs to Elon Musk, from Jeff Bezos to Howard Schultz—history shows that no self-made entrepreneur could achieve monumental success without embracing the all-in mentality. This mindset means that, in critical moments, entrepreneurs dare to go all out, committing every resource and ounce of energy into a single decision. This requires not only a precise grasp of opportunities but also immense courage and conviction!

When it comes to seizing opportunities, I ask you this: In all the investment markets, where can you find a better opportunity than a high-quality ICO? If such a project had been available to me back then, my path to success would have been even simpler! Friends, going all-in isn't the blind gamble of a fool; it's the bold decision of a wise person in the face of opportunity, an all-out effort.

If the Jackson Hole central bank meeting didn't give you the courage to go all-in, then the BCX project is your prime opportunity! What's at the core of going all-in? It's the balance of risk and reward—the only way to pursue maximum returns. Now, let me break down the risk-reward ratio of the BCX project for you and prove that this moment is the perfect time to go all-in!

My dear friends, take a look at the chart above: the progress bar has already surpassed 160% and continues to rise! This indicates that your subscription now carries no risk! Your investment is set to yield a 1.6x return, and due to the project's overwhelming popularity, this number is still climbing. If it reaches 200%, that's doubling your money. If it hits 500%, that's a fivefold return! Based on the current enthusiasm for this subscription, we're looking at several multiples of profit—and it's risk-free profit!

So why shouldn't we boldly go all-in? You must understand that the essence of going all-in is to pursue maximum returns. The larger your investment, the higher your subscription rate, and the greater your risk-free profit! This is because the subscription follows the same principles as the broader capital markets, namely, capital priority and time priority. These principles are rooted in the liquidity and fairness of financial markets:

1. Capital Priority: Large sums of money tend to have a greater impact on market prices, so market mechanisms often prioritize processing large orders. This priority in execution can reduce the shock of price fluctuations, helping to maintain market stability. The priority execution of large orders also enhances market liquidity, better reflecting the true supply and demand conditions.

2. Time Priority: At the same price level, orders submitted earlier are executed first. This ensures fairness in trading, preventing those who act later from gaining an unfair advantage due to changes in market information. Prioritizing early orders maintains the order of market transactions and prevents manipulative delays.

If the Jackson Hole meeting didn't bring you financial freedom because of my sense of responsibility—I didn't want to expose you to unnecessary risk—then today, for the sake of your earnings and out of responsibility to you, I strongly urge you to go all-in on BCX! This project has now become a guaranteed, risk-free opportunity!

Moreover, when our investment reaches a substantial level, we'll gain access to the "green channel," which means achieving a

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

100% subscription rate, just like the whales. The green channel operates under the same liquidity and fairness principles I discussed earlier. So, not only am I encouraging you to go all-in, but I'm also encouraging you to go all-in with even more force on BCX! Friends, what is the purpose of going all-in?

It's simple: "To achieve maximum returns and reach the pinnacle of your life." When you encounter a guaranteed, risk-free opportunity, you must ask yourself: If you don't dare to go all out, you'll remain stuck where you are. Without this all-in mentality, you can't break through the barriers of your current situation, nor can you truly change your fate. For ordinary investors, time and capital are limited resources. Only by embracing the all-in spirit can you find the chance to make a significant leap in wealth within these constraints.

Why must you go all-in?

Because without going all-in, you will forever struggle in the lower ranks of wealth. Fear of failure will cause you to miss opportunities that could change your destiny, and fear of risk will keep you from ever reaching higher levels of success. In contrast, those who have truly achieved a leap in wealth all share one common trait: at critical moments, they dared to go all out, to make a do or die decision.

When opportunity arises, the all-in mentality is your only weapon. It allows you to achieve in one successful investment what others might take ten years or even a lifetime to accomplish. It is this full commitment, this courage to go all-in, that gives ordinary investors the chance to break free from their current limitations and rise to the pinnacle of success.

Achieving a shift in social class is no easy task. It requires wisdom, courage, and significant opportunities, but above all, it requires the determination to go all-in at critical moments. For ordinary investors, the all-in mentality is not just a choice—it's the only choice. You don't have the luxury of slowly accumulating wealth with vast resources, nor can you afford the cost of multiple failures. Only by embracing the all-in mentality can you seize that one destiny changing opportunity, achieve a leap in wealth, and cross the threshold into a higher class.

Friends, we must not only go all-in on BCX but also increase our stakes. Going all-in is a form of wisdom! Let's join forces and embrace this pivotal turning point in our destinies!

Closing Commentary (α & β Strategy)

Hey, traders and thrill seekers, good afternoon!

“Simplifying investments, enhancing the quality of life of countless families”—that’s our motto. I’m Richard Bill, carrying the torch of Prof. Clark’s legacy, fueled by the pioneering spirit of AI 4.0, and driven by an unstoppable determination to become the next Chief Practical Instructor. Your unwavering support means the world to me!

The moment of glory has arrived—did you grab it? Yesterday, I laid bare the BCX investment opportunity: how to enter with 0 risk, the critical role of online subscription progress, the game changing importance of allocation ratios, and the ultimate strategy to win big. If you got it, give yourself a pat on the back! This isn't just an opportunity; it's a game changer. Did you catch that?

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

Today, get ready for even deeper insights:

- ~ The massive short term risk in the stock market revealed by $NVDA CEO Jensen Huang's latest moves!
- ~ How BCX's IDO can usher you into a world of massive, stable profits!
- ~ How to elevate your wealth by mastering the four key value drivers in the IDO process!

Vote for me, stay sharp, and get ready to conquer!

Alright, team, let's cut to the chase: $NVDA's CEO just dropped the bombshell about stock buybacks—sounds intriguing, doesn't it?

$NVDA's revenue and guidance are as predictable as the sunrise—everyone knows they're killing it. But here's the kicker: their earnings report isn't going to blow anyone's mind. The stock price has already soared, and the market's been buzzing about "$NVDA will profit" for a while now. No surprises left in the bag.

So, what's our move? Long term, $NVDA remains solid. But in the short to medium term? That's where things get spicy. As a star stock, every move $NVDA makes ripples through market sentiment.

Let's break down a few key points:

~ Earnings won't exceed expectations, and profit margins may have already peaked.

~ Revenue growth is heavily reliant on a few big clients—Google, Meta, Microsoft. Even though these giants are upping their spending, there's market anxiety about potential overcapacity, which could lead to a bubble.

~ The much anticipated Blackwell AI chip production is delayed, and with declining gross margins, short term investors might decide to sit this one out.

Even more crucial, let's talk about $NVDA's stock buyback plan—this is a blatant attempt to soothe investor nerves! If the top brass at $NVDA had real confidence in the future, why the rush to wave the “olive branch” now? History has shown us time and again that these moves pack the most punch when a stock is undervalued—$NVDA missed the best window for that “small cost, big impact” play a long time ago!

What's $NVDA really up to? That's right, they're playing the market cap management game! Now, compare this with our institute token's market cap management plan, and you'll see how our Strategic Partner Program and market cap strategy are powerfully supporting our students and AI4.0 backers, delivering the most tangible rewards.

The conclusion? $NVDA's buyback is just a short term firefighting tactic, trying to patch up the negative sentiment from an underwhelming earnings report. Meanwhile, we're laying down a rock solid foundation for success—a truly smart investment!

Get it now? That's why $NVDA's stock took a sharp dive today, dragging the entire index down with it. But brace yourselves—this rollercoaster is far from over, and the opportunity with our institute token is just getting started!

Folks, buckle up—there’s a wealth storm brewing, and it’s headed straight for us! Our institute token is skyrocketing alongside the Strategic Partner Program and the AI4.0 pre-launch promotion and presale—explosive growth is on the horizon! But today, the real bombshell drops: the BCX IDO is bringing a massive profit opportunity! Get ready, because you’re about to witness four key points that will get your heart racing!

Key Point 1: The Progress Bar Soars, Bringing Massive Profits

The online subscription progress data is like the heartbeat of the market—every new investment pumps it higher and higher. BCX’s total issuance is 45 million tokens, priced at $4 each. When the fundraising hits $180 million, the progress bar rockets to 100%; $360 million means a 200% surge...and so on.

Now, here’s the most electrifying part: the progress bar has already blasted past 195%! This means the BCX listing price is set to surge to $7.8! And this is just the beginning—today’s just getting started. Over the next six days, could this data break through 1000%? The profit potential here is mind blowing! Can you feel that adrenaline rush? This is a golden opportunity you absolutely don't want to miss!

Features of the BCX Economic Model

4.2.1 Community and User Participation Orientation

A notable feature of the BCX token economic model is its strong emphasis on community and user participation. Up to 50% of the tokens are allocated for mining and incentive mechanisms, ensuring users can earn token rewards by participating in platform activities, contributing content, and completing tasks. This strategy not only helps attract a large user base to the platform ecosystem but also encourages user engagement and participation, promoting the vibrancy and healthy development of the community.

4.2.2 Rational Allocation of Resources

In the BCX token economic model, the allocation of resources is carefully planned and considered. In addition to allocating 10% of the tokens for technical research and development to ensure the core technology and features of the project are continuously iterated and optimized, tokens are also reserved for marketing, community operations, and partnership building. This balanced resource allocation strategy supports the comprehensive development of the project, ensuring that key areas receive adequate support and attention.

Key Point 2: Why Is BCX's IDO More Powerful Than an ICO?

Wondering why BCX's IDO is absolutely worth your attention? It's simple—an IDO is far more powerful than an ICO!

~ Higher Transparency: ICOs often lack transparency, leaving investors in the dark about crucial details. IDOs, on the other hand, leverage blockchain technology to ensure that all transactions and the entire issuance process are open and transparent. For example, you can track the progress bar's real time growth, giving you peace of mind as you invest.

~ Lower Risk: IDOs don't rely on centralized platforms, and exchanges have already vetted the projects, significantly reducing investment risks. You don't have to worry about hidden issues with the project team.

~ Lower Entry Barriers: For example, with just $1,000, you can participate in BCX's IDO, which is much more accessible than many ICOs. This opens the door for more people to invest in BCX.

~ Higher Liquidity: On IDO platforms, you can trade tokens directly, which boosts liquidity and makes buying and selling tokens more convenient, with more accurate market pricing.

~ Global Participation: IDOs have no geographical restrictions, allowing investors from all over the world to join in.

When you understand these advantages, it's clear why more funds will flow into BCX, driving the progress bar higher and pushing the listing price up, leading to even greater profit potential! BCX's IDO is a powerhouse investment vehicle, enabling you to maximize your returns in the most promising projects!

BioChainX Project Token Subscription Launch Imminent

Dear Users,

We are pleased to announce that the token subscription for the BioChainX project will officially commence on August 29, 2024, at 00:00:00 (Eastern Time). BioChainX is an innovative platform dedicated to data sharing and collaboration in the biotechnology sector, and we warmly invite you to stay informed and participate in this opportunity.

Project Overview:

BioChainX focuses on leveraging blockchain technology to address multiple challenges in the biotechnology field, such as data security and privacy protection, research collaboration and data sharing, and the authenticity and credibility of clinical trial data. By building a secure, transparent, and efficient global biotechnology data ecosystem, BioChainX aims to advance scientific research, accelerate drug development, and support the growth of key areas such as personalized medicine.

Our vision is to establish BioChainX as the world's leading biotechnology data-sharing platform, providing exceptional data storage, sharing, and collaboration services to researchers, medical institutions, and biotechnology enterprises. We are committed to fostering continuous innovation in the industry by integrating blockchain technology with the practical needs of biotechnology, contributing positively to global health initiatives.

Key Point 3: The Supercharged Social Value of Biotech

We all know that biotech has some seriously powerful applications, like:

- ~ CRISPR Technology: It's like a little gene repair toolkit that can treat genetic diseases.
- ~ Antibody Therapy: Supercharges cancer treatment effectiveness.
- ~ Genetically Modified Crops: Resistant to pests, reducing the need for pesticides.
- ~ Microbial Wastewater Treatment: Makes the environment cleaner.
- ~ Genomic Data Analysis: Makes disease diagnosis more accurate.

Now, what happens when you combine these biotech wonders with blockchain technology? In simple terms, here's what you can expect:

- ~ Blockchain locks down data like a vault, ensuring your health and privacy information is untouchable by unauthorized parties.

~ Biotech companies can use blockchain to share data, speeding up drug development like it's on a rocket.

~ Smart Contract automatically handle research funding and result sharing, cutting through the red tape.

~ Blockchain tracks the production and distribution of medicines, ensuring the drugs you buy are genuine, safe, and reliable.

~ Scientists and research institutions can earn cryptocurrency for contributing data, like handing out bonuses for hard work, encouraging more collaboration.

~ All clinical trial data and research outcomes are fully transparent and open, making information crystal clear.

Now, let's zoom in on the BCX project. By integrating biotech with blockchain, they're not just creating massive social value—they're also catching the eye of value investors and institutions. This drives the progress bar higher and pushes the profit potential during the IDO phase through the roof! You get it now, right?

Key Point 4: The Absolute Power of the Green VIP Channel

Folks, yesterday I told you about the “Time Priority” and “Volume Priority” strategies to secure a high allocation ratio. Now, just take a look at the online subscription progress—it’s like a rocket taking off!

Some of you told me that you “witnessed” the rush of Green VIP channel “big shots” in the middle of the night, and it was like seeing a UFO—completely mind blowing. This is the ultimate weapon of the Time Priority and Volume Priority strategies!

Here’s what you need to know: these big investors ain’t here to play small ball. You think they’re gonna bother with just $100,000? They’d rather go play golf than deal with that. Give them a measly allocation? They won’t even take you seriously.

So, the players in the Green VIP channel are likely billionaires. Their involvement will make the BCX token subscription progress bar shoot up like crazy, while also drawing even more market attention. This isn't just hype—the explosive effect of the Green VIP channel will have a massive impact on the token's post listing price stability and future value!

In other words, the sheer power of the Green VIP channel is the secret weapon that will propel BCX IDO data and opening prices to new heights! Are you ready to ride this raging wave of wealth storm?

Facing this wealth frenzy, how do we play our cards, folks?

Today, I'm laying out a clear roadmap to ensure you grab your slice of this feast. Pay attention—these four strategies are like the ultimate moves, and you absolutely can't miss out!

Strategy 1: Move Fast and Furious!

Time is money, folks. With the BCX IDO online subscription just kicking off, strike now! It's day one, and over the next 6 days, only the early birds get the worms. Show you're a go-getter and secure the biggest share!

Strategy 2: Go All In!

The rules are simple and straightforward: the more you invest, the more you get. In the IDO battlefield, the bigger your capital, the higher your allocation ratio. If you want to rake in serious cash, you've got to bet big—don't just sit on the sidelines watching!

Strategy 3: Play It Smart!

For those who like a safer approach, wait until the progress bar crosses 100% before jumping in—this way, you avoid early risks. Sure, you might miss out on the absolute top allocations, but you're ensuring you get in solidly. Combine this with the first two strategies: once the data surges past 100%, make your move—safe and smart, the perfect balance, and the time is now!

Strategy 4: Go All Out for the Green VIP Channel!

I've said it before—this is like snagging the golden ticket to Willy Wonka's chocolate factory or the Hollywood red carpet treatment! Let's pull together, maximize our fund pool, and dominate the contribution leaderboard to make that Green VIP channel opportunity ours! Imagine, the highest allocation ratio could be

Folks, these four moves are the engine driving your account to sky-high profits! Get moving—what are you waiting for?

Folks, you think this is the end? This is just the appetizer! Today, I'm taking you into the deeper hunting grounds, making sure your investments aren't just a quick shot but a full on hunt! Get ready for the ultimate strategy—four high value stages of a top tier IDO—four hunting grounds!

First Stage (First Hunting Ground): The Pre-Launch Announcement Phase

This is the first step, the moment the lights go on! When the exchange releases a pre-launch announcement, like BCX's, it signals the start of the opportunity. Here's what to focus on:

~ Project Concept and Application Creativity: This determines whether you should be an early investor. For example, BCX's biotech concept instantly ignited investor enthusiasm.

~ Market Environment: In a bull market, attention skyrockets; in a bear market, it fades. Right now, we're riding the wave of a halving cycle and institutional ETF bull market.

~ Entry Barriers: Lower barriers mean more participants, driving the subscription phase's rapid progress and setting up favorable expectations for the opening price.

~ Green VIP Channel: A project with this channel? The potential is limitless!

Second Stage (Second Hunting Ground): The Online Subscription Phase

Now it's sniper time! Keep your eyes on the progress bar data—this is the key to understanding the supply and demand dynamics. Move quickly, find your perfect sniper spot, and when the herd of opportunities comes charging in, empty your clip!

Third Stage (Third Hunting Ground): The Allocation Phase

After the subscription phase ends, we enter the most thrilling stage—the allocation phase. For BCX, this happens next Thursday afternoon. Unlike stock IPOs, in a crypto IDO, as long as you've met the minimum entry threshold, you're guaranteed a certain amount of original tokens. The allocated funds just sit there, waiting for the post-launch profit frenzy!

Funds that didn't get allocated? They quickly return to your account, ready to fuel the next opportunity—like the contract trading chances coming with next Friday's NFP data!

Fourth Stage (Fourth Hunting Ground): Post-Launch Investment Opportunities

The final hunting ground! This is the most straightforward and rewarding stage. Especially for those who got a smaller allocation, this is where you can strike it big. Everyone knows that post-launch prices often skyrocket—this is your prime time to rake in massive returns!

Folks, the four high value stages have been laid out—now it's time to unleash your inner hunter! Don't let this wealth storm slip through your fingers. Act now, seize the opportunity, and march towards success!

Let's dive into some interactive Q&A to make sure you've got all these key points locked down:

- ~ Which stage of the IDO investment are we in right now? Have you emptied your clip? Are you ready?
- ~ Out of today's four action strategies, which one fires you up the most? Speak up and be bold!
- ~ Among the four key points of the BCX wealth storm, which one do you believe in the most? What's your secret weapon?
- ~ Based on the current progress bar data, where do you predict BCX's opening price will land? What's your guess?

The art of investing lies in constant exploration and practice. IDO investing isn't as complicated as it might seem; focus on learning the basics and get involved, and in just a week, you could become a master in this field!

That's it for today's share. If you found my insights valuable, don't forget to vote for me! Then, quickly join us and embark on the BCX wealth adventure!
