

Morning Review

Dear Friends, Family, and Esteemed Future Investment Masters,

Good morning!

Last week, we embarked on an exciting journey together, delving deep into the world of high-quality IDO investments and unveiling the mysteries of BCX. The market's response was like a whisper of the stars to the moon, as many of you seized precious opportunities in this race against time. This was no mere coincidence, but rather, it seemed as though the hand of fate was lighting our path, guiding us towards a brilliant future.

As we step into this new week, I am confident that we are not only going to witness the splendor of history but will also be the ones to write these glorious chapters ourselves! Now is the time for our wealth matrix to take center stage in the market, showcasing unparalleled profitability.

So, why is the investment market about to face a "storm"? How can we navigate and thrive? What surprising opportunities will we encounter this week? Which important investment themes must not be missed? How can we precisely time our investments and rhythms? As BCX's IDO enters its most exhilarating phase, what key investment points are waiting to be uncovered?

Let's stay closely aligned as we embrace these key topics that will be shared. May every choice we make be a solid step towards success! Are you ready?

As the summer trading season has just concluded its final round, we find ourselves at a crucial turning point! With market volatility on the rise, the days ahead will be filled with both challenges and opportunities. The upcoming September 17-18 rate cut decision could serve as a catalyst for significant market fluctuations. Now is the time to prepare thoroughly and brace for the impending market storm!

1. Impact of Rate Cuts on the Stock Market

Rate cuts are typically a response to slowing economic growth and are considered "reactive" measures. If the rate cut fails to exceed expectations, it could trigger a sell-off in the stock market!

2. Historical Data

Since 1928, September has generally been the worst performing month for the SPX. The stock market often ends the month with negative returns, and in the past four years, the SPX has been on a downward trend during this period.

3. Current Possible Scenario

As the market becomes more active again, trading activity is likely to increase, leading to higher volatility. Investors might reassess their portfolios, realizing they are overexposed to the "Magnificent Seven" or large-cap stocks, prompting them to adjust their strategies.

4. Market Sentiment and Position Indicators

Current market sentiment and positioning indicators are less than ideal, and political and geopolitical uncertainties are severely dampening confidence in taking long positions.

FB Finance Institute

Dear Friends,

The market is currently facing significant year-end pressures, and these real challenges are compelling us to proceed with caution.

Numerous institutions, including Michael Hartnett from Bank of

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

America, have issued warnings that the Federal Reserve's first rate cut might act as a catalyst for a stock market sell-off, rather than a force driving the market higher. We must take these market warnings seriously.

Looking back, we began to weather the interest rate storm during the 2022 bear market and have recently navigated through volatility with the Strategic Partner Program's steady approach. These experiences have not only honed our investment skills but also strengthened our resilience. As we approach the anticipated market fluctuations, we need to fully prepare by optimizing our portfolios and adjusting strategies to ensure we move forward steadily in the coming storm.

From the SPX trend chart, as prices retest the previous high of 5669.67, the MACD Histogram, Signal Line, and MACD Line are showing clear divergence signals. This indicates that the market may be at risk of a false breakout. Therefore, now is the best time to avoid stock market risks!

As the tech giant $NVDA faces unprecedented challenges, we find ourselves at a critical crossroads. The market storm is upon us—earnings reports have failed to exceed expectations, prices have fallen below the daily Bollinger Band midline, and the MACD indicator is showing clear bearish signals. We are witnessing a turning point in the market, where the moment of truth has arrived. Diverging technical patterns often lead to accelerated declines, triggering panic in market sentiment (with the VIX index already starting to surge) and deep corrections in the indices.

Undoubtedly, in the face of such turbulence, it is wise to steer clear of stock market volatility in the short term. I foresee new opportunities emerging in December, where you will return to the market with the poise of a king, ready to claim new victories!

Market uncertainty is not just a challenge; it is the fertile ground where immense opportunities are born. Every adjustment and decision we make will shape our success or failure in the market. This week, two golden opportunities lie ahead: the BCX IDO investment opportunity and the contract profit opportunity in the cryptocurrency market. Seizing these two opportunities will be the key to our success!

This week, the contract market is set to experience significant volatility as a series of crucial economic data is scheduled for release:

Tuesday: August ISM Manufacturing PMI

Wednesday: July JOLTs Job Openings

Thursday: August ADP Employment Change and Initial Jobless Claims

Friday: Non-Farm Payrolls

Particularly, the August U.S. employment data released this Friday will provide us with key insights into the future path of interest rates. This will be the last labor market report before the Federal Reserve's September meeting. The market generally expects a decrease in new job opportunities, and the preliminary August PMI report suggests a decline in employment trends, which could alleviate price pressures while supporting new actions by the Federal Reserve.

These important economic data releases are likely to trigger significant market fluctuations, increasing the opportunities for contract trading. Timing is crucial: the BCX IDO investment project has shown the potential for risk-free high returns. Our investment strategy should be as follows:

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

1. Increase capital investment before the BCX online subscription ends.
2. After the subscription results are announced, seize contract trading opportunities as volatility is expected to continue rising significantly.

With this strategy, the trading rhythm for this week and next week should be clear. Up next, I will focus on sharing the key strategic points for investing in the BCX IDO.

Dear Friends,

In this era of transformation and opportunity, I am delighted to be your investment guide, sharing with you the 5 key strategic points for the BCX IDO phase. These strategies will serve as a compass, helping every member of our family navigate the investment path with confidence.

Strategic Point 1: Keep a Close Eye on the Progress Bar—The Pulse of the Market

- When the progress bar exceeds 100%, it clearly signals that the opening price will be higher than the issue price of $4, marking a risk-free entry point for us.
- The current data shows approximately 500%, which, like a beacon at the summit, indicates that the participation funds have already reached five times the total IDO issuance, suggesting that the opening price will be no less than $20.
- With less than 2 days remaining, this ratio could surpass 600% or even 800%, paving a broad avenue towards success.

Imagine the progress bar as our compass—not only guiding us to

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

sense the pace of the BCX journey and the market's temperature but also mapping out the target we're about to reach: a new high at the listing opening price. This figure acts like a signpost, directing us toward a risk-free haven, allowing us to sail smoothly and boldly forward on this journey!

Strategic Point 2: Mastering the Art of Increasing Your Allocation Ratio

To enhance your allocation ratio, the key lies in precisely applying the principles of time priority and investment amount priority—investing early and increasing your investment size.

Last week, I shared with you six golden keys to unlocking the door to wealth, helping you increase your allocation ratio: being early, increasing investment, using every penny, participating during the golden hour, persistence, and leveraging the power of the funding pool.

Special Reminders:

1. By continuously increasing your investment after securing an early position, not only can you maintain your allocation ratio, but you can actually improve it, as the system will view you as a high-quality participant.

2. As the progress bar data increases, the allocation ratio for ordinary subscribers will be diluted. With premium investors in the green channel taking a significant portion of the pie, the simplest way to secure a higher ratio is to increase your investment as much as possible!

To stand out on this journey, we must act like the brave adventurers—quick in action and decisive in commitment. Remember, every additional investment fuels our journey, allowing us to stay ahead of the pack.

Strategic Point 3: Master the Funding Cycle—Become a Time Management Expert on This Journey

On the day the allocation results are announced (September 5th, starting at 12:00 PM this Thursday), any unallocated funds will be promptly returned to your account.

This means that if you participate now, the funding cycle will be only 2 days. Once the allocation data is released, BCX will be ready for its listing moment, and if all goes well, BCX will open for trading within this week.

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

What unique advantages do participants have now?

1. Time Savings: You can make full use of this precious time, maximizing the efficiency of your funds.
2. Dual Advantage: Those who have already participated earlier have secured a time advantage. By adding more funds now, not only do you continue to benefit from the time advantage, but you also further increase your allocation ratio, securing even more opportunities!

Strategic Point 4: Building the Strong Fortress of Our Journey—The Wealth Matrix

I firmly believe that getting every friend involved in the BCX IDO is not just about valuing each person's interests, but it is also a crucial moment for constructing our collective wealth fortress.

Throughout this journey, I've observed that some friends have not fully realized their potential when facing challenges. For instance, after gaining profits from contract trading, some have failed to effectively reinvest in financial products or academy tokens, overly relying on a single channel and not fully grasping the deeper significance of building a wealth matrix.

The true essence of a wealth matrix lies in finding the perfect balance between risk and profit, ensuring that our journey is not only steady but also filled with hope. BCX is not just a promising new star; its IDO represents a prime opportunity for us to strengthen our wealth fortress.

To firmly establish ourselves on this adventure, we need more than just courage and determination; we need a profound understanding and application of the wisdom behind the wealth matrix. The wealth matrix is like a solid foundation that supports our dreams and future.

Strategic Point 5: Fully Secure the Green Channel Advantage

In the world of IPOs, ICOs, and IDOs, the green VIP channel is our secret weapon, offering the potential for exceptionally high allocation ratios. In the context of an IDO in the cryptocurrency market, this means we can aim for a 100% allocation ratio.

As a strategic partner of the trading center and an early investor, our institute holds unparalleled advantages. Now, we need to translate these advantages into action to secure this VIP spot. Once obtained, every member of our institute will benefit from a 100% allocation ratio!

However, our current "funding pool" has not yet reached the threshold required to secure the green VIP channel.

Friends, only through collective effort can I negotiate for greater benefits on your behalf, such as significantly enhancing the allocation ratio. What I don't want to see is the hard work of the majority being compromised by the lack of participation from a few, affecting the overall distribution.

Imagine this scenario: others enjoy allocation ratios as high as

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

50%, while yours may not even reach 5%—this gap could severely impact your investment returns!

Most importantly, the trading center is set to select premium IDO projects at the end of the year in preparation for the upcoming cryptocurrency bull market. This means we are standing on the threshold of a golden period filled with abundant opportunities!

The strength of BCX's funding pool and contribution level is a crucial factor we must develop. This is not just a decisive battle to secure the green VIP channel but also a vital step towards gaining an absolute advantage on the fast track to transforming our investment destinies!

Dear Friends, Family, and Esteemed Future Investment Masters,

We are standing at a critical moment that will determine our destiny. Here are the truths we must face:

1. The Crisis of a Stock Market Peak is Upon Us. Tech stocks have started to plunge, and if you don't want to be caught "swimming naked" when the tide goes out, now is your last chance to sell. Don't let yourself be left out in the cold by market volatility—adjust in time to keep your investments safe!

2. The Strategic Partner Program has undoubtedly seized a historic opportunity. With the successful progress of the Ai4.0 system internal test, we have boldly entered the cryptocurrency market.

This not only injects momentum into the market value management plan for our academy's tokens but also paves the way for the promotion, pre-sale, regional agent plan, and listing of the Ai4.0 system.

We have entered the most benefit-rich period in the history of our institute, with a total asset return target of 300%-1000% as our baseline. Are you ready to embrace this exciting challenge?

3. The best risk-free high-return investment opportunity right now is to fully participate in the BCX IDO online subscription. Adhering to the principles of time priority and investment amount priority will be your winning strategy!

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

The earlier you invest and the more you invest, the higher your allocation ratio will be, greatly enhancing your chances of maximizing returns.

4. Most importantly, we must strive to secure the green VIP channel in the BCX IDO. This not only determines whether this risk-free investment opportunity can exceed expectations but also is key as we enter the upcoming IDO-intensive period. Seizing this opportunity could be your golden ticket to financial freedom!

So, have you understood the strategic points I shared today, and are you ready to take action? If you're aiming for higher returns and want to achieve at least 10x returns by year-end, don't hesitate—reach out to us anytime to resolve any doubts and help you navigate the stock market storm, sail through the waves, and reach our city on a hill, our dream sanctuary!

Closing Commentary

Dear students and partners, good afternoon! I'm James Wilson. I hope you've had a wonderful and relaxing time with your family during these consecutive holidays.

The seeds sown last week are about to bear fruit this week. While the stock market may take a year to reach its target, we've managed to achieve our goals within a single week. From the current momentum, this is just the beginning. You know I'm talking about the BCX IDO project. Although the stock market is plummeting and bleeding today, everything is going exactly as I anticipated.

Let's thank professor Clark for the valuable insights he shared this morning. Now, I'll provide you with a brand new investment analysis.

Last week, I repeatedly discussed the current investment environment in the U.S. stock market with you. Through technical analysis, I clearly indicated that the stock index pattern and technical indicators are uniformly pointing downward, about to form a strong downward pattern—the M-shape. Once the M-shape is established, the entire stock market will be engulfed in chaos, with popular stocks collapsing, triggering cries of despair among retail investors.

And now you see it: the stock index has officially entered the M-shape, with all stocks plunging across the board, and the fear index soaring by 24%! From a technical analysis standpoint, the market has fallen off a cliff and entered its darkest hour.

However, this is only the beginning. The formation of the M-shape means that the index will inevitably drop below the previous low to seek more reliable support. Some stocks may even see declines of 10% to 30% or more! The popular AI stock $SMCI has already seen a drop of over 60% in this round of market downturn!

Regarding NVIDIA's earnings report, I had clearly pointed out, "NVIDIA's earnings report will undoubtedly be very impressive, and the guidance for the next quarter should be quite strong. However, given the extremely high market expectations, any slight disappointment will trigger an immediate risk-off strategy. Moreover, the focus of analysis is not on the earnings themselves but on whether the Blackwell chip will continue to be delayed."

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

And so it happened. NVIDIA, as a benchmark in the AI field and a barometer for global financial markets, is more than just a flagship—it's a market standard. Its every move reflects the expectations of all investors. The current bull market is primarily driven by the widespread speculation on AI. If the core of AI falters, does that signal the end of this bull market? Today, $NVDA has already dropped by 9%.

Here's a little secret: the technical pattern of $NVDA has now formed a bearish pattern even more alarming than an M-top—a triple top formation!

Some of you may still be hoping that the upcoming rate cuts will rescue the U.S. stock market and return it to a bull market. Let me tell you this: the U.S. stock market has a characteristic—“It doesn’t react to events that are 100% certain; it only finds opportunities for revaluation in uncertain events.” The news of a rate cut in September is almost universally known, especially among those savvy institutional investors. Just look at what happened last week: after NVIDIA released its earnings report, the stock dropped, yet major investment banks like Goldman Sachs, JPMorgan, and Citibank all continued to tout NVIDIA. The result? Today, $NVDA plummeted by 9%, precisely because of their massive sell-offs. Clearly, institutional investors are smarter than the average retail trader.

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

So, don’t hold too much hope for the benefits of a rate cut. Have you ever heard the story of the shoe dropping? The story goes like this: a person living in an apartment building would drop their shoes heavily on the floor every night, waking up the neighbor below. One night, they dropped only one shoe loudly and gently placed the second one down. The neighbor below, waiting anxiously for the second shoe to drop, couldn’t sleep all night.

This story illustrates the anxiety people feel when waiting for an anticipated event to happen. When the “other shoe drops,” it signifies that the long-awaited event has finally occurred, and the unease dissipates, regardless of the outcome. Now, a small rate cut is a foregone conclusion, and when the shoe drops, it won't bring any excitement; instead, a substantial rate cut might amplify concerns about a U.S. economic recession, triggering even greater panic.

So, no matter what, you need to understand one thing: the best investment opportunities in the U.S. stock market for this year have already passed.

I have provided you with the most precise analysis strategies, from a nine out of ten win rate in stock options, to a 20 win streak in cryptocurrency contracts, and now this week's warning about the risks in NVIDIA's earnings report. Was there ever a time when my judgment was wrong? The market trends and the trading results have consistently proven my deep insights into the investment markets. So, moving forward, I'm offering you two options—two optimal options.

First, if you're only trading U.S. stocks, you can close your account now and get ready to go on a vacation. When you return, and spring is in full bloom, reopen your stock account and reach out to me. I will still provide you with the best stock market investment strategies at that time.

Second, contact me immediately, and I'll help you upgrade to a higher tier, offering you top-tier trading strategies. This includes cryptocurrency contracts, stock options, and the current IDO project, along with all future high-quality ICO projects. This way, you can achieve a leap in wealth while ensuring risk free profits.

The best investment target at this moment is neither stock options nor cryptocurrency contracts but rather high quality IDO projects!

My dear friends, you can clearly see that the BCX subscription progress bar has already surpassed 500%! Today is Tuesday, and there are less than two days left. So, why not boldly speculate on where the progress bar might end up at this growth rate? Perhaps 550%, maybe 600%, or even 700% or more! We can also be certain that in this round of trading, we have already secured our victory. Once the progress bar exceeds 100%, our subscription has no risk whatsoever.

Therefore, when subscribing to high-quality IDO projects, the primary focus isn't on risk.

We don't need to discuss a non-existent issue—IDO projects indeed carry no risk, and everyone knows this.

So, the crucial question becomes: How do we maximize our returns without taking on any risk? All capital markets follow two key principles: the principle of prioritizing capital volume and the principle of prioritizing timing. But what exactly are the underlying concepts behind these principles?

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

1. Fairness:

Capital Volume Priority: Market rules prioritize large orders because these have a greater impact on market prices. Given that the market aims to treat buyers and sellers equally, prioritizing large capital orders helps maintain overall market stability.

Without this principle, large orders might struggle to execute quickly, leading to significant price fluctuations.

Timing Priority: The timing priority principle ensures a "first come, first served" fairness, preventing later orders from jumping ahead in the queue. This rule encourages participants to place their orders promptly, fostering a fair competitive environment.

2. Liquidity:

Capital Volume Priority: The quick execution of large orders can significantly boost market liquidity because such orders typically involve substantial buy-sell transactions. If large orders aren't given priority, the market may experience liquidity shortages, leading to price volatility or difficulties in executing trades.

Timing Priority: Early orders are often placed by participants with forward-looking insights into market trends or information.

Prioritizing these orders facilitates quicker market transactions, enhancing overall market liquidity.

3. Efficiency:

Capital Volume Priority: Prioritizing large orders improves market efficiency since these orders typically represent the core trading needs of participants. Processing these first helps reduce market delays and friction, ensuring smooth operations.

Time Priority: The principle of time priority pushes market participants to make quicker decisions, preventing order backlogs. This ensures the market can handle a large volume of orders swiftly, maintaining a high level of efficiency.

Given the advantages of capital and time, we can conclude: with equal capital, the order of time dictates allocation proportion; with equal timing, the size of the capital determines the allocation ratio.

So, the secret to maximizing risk-free earnings is to act early and bring substantial capital to the table. When your capital is large enough, smaller orders ahead of you will be diluted, allowing you to secure a higher allocation ratio.

So how can we guarantee our allocation? You should know that the BCX progress bar has already exceeded 500%. The higher the allocation, the greater the guaranteed, risk-free returns—something everyone desires. Let me share a secret with you.

This secret is universal across all investment markets: the Doubling Principle. Think about it—if you have one apple and want to earn another, you need a 100% increase, which is quite challenging. But if you have ten apples and want to earn just one more, you only need a 10% increase, which is much easier. And since IDO projects carry no risk, they are the perfect application of the Doubling Principle—there's no other market like it. You don't need to worry about over-investing and not getting proportional returns. On the contrary, the more you invest, the more you'll earn!

Now, how do you use one apple to earn another 100%? That's where the Green Channel comes in. When we apply the Doubling Principle to subscribing to an IDO project, it will undoubtedly help us secure access to the Green Channel. I firmly believe that by doing this, all the apples you hold will enjoy a 100% allocation. The Green Channel means that however many apples you have, you'll earn that many more. And as for how many times you'll multiply your investment—just keep an eye on that progress bar, and you'll see for yourself.

Dear friends, did you catch all that? Every year around this quarter, we see a surge in high quality IDO projects, and this year is no different. We can expect even more excellent opportunities in the coming weeks. So, it's essential to leverage the risk-free nature of these investments to execute our Doubling Principle effectively. Once the subscription pool hits the target, securing that Green Channel will open up a whole new avenue for profits.

With less than two days until the allocation results are announced, we're holding the answer in our hands. Boldly use the Doubling Principle to increase your allocation. After the results are out, not only will you have earned significantly more, but your funds will also be back in your hands. It's like you've used this money for just two days to boost your overall allocation rate. Doesn't it feel incredible to outpace time and enhance your allocation simultaneously?

Take action now, and I'll see you tomorrow morning! Have a fantastic day!
