

Morning Review

Good morning, dear students and partners! This is James Wilson, and welcome to today's morning market review.

This year, the stock market has been quite the rollercoaster. From the relative low on January 5th to the relative high on July 10th, the market rose by 28.51%, a period one could call a "bull market where you made money while lying down." However, since July 10th, the index has dropped by 8%, and we are in the early stages of a bear market correction. Though the drop doesn't seem significant in terms of percentage, many have noticed that the profits earned at the start of the year have nearly vanished in the past month's volatility. Why is this happening?

Let me give you a simple example to explain. If a stock falls from $100 to $50, that's a 50% decline, right? Now, how much of a rise would it take to bring it back to its original $100?

Bingo! The answer is it would need a 100% increase. This perfectly explains why the profits you worked hard to earn throughout the year trading U.S. stocks can be wiped out in just a month or two. After all, in the stock market, losing money is far easier than making it.

What's more important is that the energy, time, and other resources we invest during this period are all sunk costs, and the returns we get often don't match these hidden efforts. This is precisely why diversification is essential. If you stick to trading U.S. stocks for a year and don't make at least 50% to 100% in profit, haven't you wasted both time and money? Time is life, and if money isn't appreciating, it's certainly depreciating.

Yesterday, I made it very clear to everyone—the bull market in U.S. stocks is over. So, what happens next? Will the market continue to move sideways, wearing down patience, or will it rapidly crash?

If you've watched Million Dollar Baby, you'll understand that sometimes, the best way to throw a powerful punch is to take a step back first. The stock market operates the same way. A rapid FB Finance Institute - 15th Session crash clears enough space for future growth. Sharp declines often bring opportunities for trades. So, a crash isn't what you should fear. What should you fear?

The real fear lies in the slow, sustained decline—those markets that move with relentless, erratic volatility. It doesn't knock you out all at once; instead, it slowly erodes your capital and confidence, trapping you in a state of "slow death." Now, with the end of the bull market in U.S. stocks, this hellish type of market is unfolding. That's why I've suggested you step away from trading and take a trip.

This type of market is cruel—it gives you glimpses of hope, yet constantly keeps you on edge. You might make some profit in a day, only for the market to pull back sharply afterward. It's like being flipped over and over in a frying pan—no clear path forward, no easy escape, leaving you mentally exhausted.

So right now, there's absolutely no need to engage in those exhausting investments, because we have a better choice. Look at our outstanding performance in the BCX subscription! Guys, isn't this kind of opportunity—where you can secure high profits without any worries—far more captivating?

The BCX subscription progress bar has already approached 600%! This means your allocated funds will bring nearly sixfold returns! At a cost of $4 per share, BCX could easily surpass $24 on its listing day. With the transparent rules of the cryptocurrency market, we can clearly see every shift in the progress bar throughout the subscription. This type of chance not only brings significant profits but also delivers mental satisfaction and fulfillment!

Just imagine, you're sitting back, sipping a cup of rich coffee, calmly watching your wealth grow. This is the ideal form of investment we strive for!

Thank you for your participation and support!

Friends, the online subscription for BCX has officially ended.

Please stay tuned for the allocation results!

Did you notice? From the start of our subscription to its completion, the time passed almost without you realizing it. Just as I mentioned before, we've achieved in about a week what would take a year in stock investments. During this IDO subscription, we not only outperformed the market but also gained a tremendous time advantage!

When it comes to stock investing, I believe everyone has some regrets. In your investment journey, you may have missed out on some super bull stocks, leaving you with lingering disappointment. It's much like life itself, filled with gains and losses. We keep moving forward, chasing opportunities, but inevitably, some slip through our fingers. Meeting the right person at the wrong time, or encountering the wrong opportunity at the right moment—like the stock market, life is full of regrets. And as time cannot be reversed, we're often left to sigh: "Flowers may bloom again, but we are no longer young."

However, in the world of cryptocurrency IDO projects, these regrets no longer exist. It allows you to see each step clearly and know precisely what your returns will be. IDO projects offer not FB Finance Institute - 15th Session only risk free, high returns in a short cycle but also provide a way to make up for the missed opportunities in life. This is the true investment opportunity we are seeking.

Initial jobless claims for the week ending August 31st were lower than expected, and the number of new jobs added was the lowest since 2021, further proving that the labor market is shifting toward slower growth. After two years of significant expansion, the downturn in the job market has led to hiring slowing below normal levels. Companies are scaling back recruitment in response to high costs and high interest rates. The latest data adds to the evidence of weakening labor demand, and Federal Reserve officials have stated that they are now more concerned about risks in the labor market than inflation.

Yesterday, I explained very clearly that the Federal Reserve's stance has undergone an unprecedented shift. Inflation is no longer the driving factor in their decisions—the strength of the economy will be key to influencing U.S. stocks going forward!

Today's data has once again put pressure on the stock market.

From the manufacturing sector flashing warnings to employment data signaling danger, the crisis of economic recession is here. So, what we need to do now is sell stocks and follow me to seize the upcoming opportunities.

The essence of investing lies in risk avoidance and opportunity capture.

As uncertainty around the economic outlook intensifies, Bank of America clients have been net sellers of U.S. stocks for the second consecutive week, marking the largest net selling since the end of 2020 and the second largest since the bank began tracking the data in 2008! The report shows that, as of the week ending August 30th, institutions, hedge funds, and retail clients all reduced their U.S. stock holdings, with a net sell-off of $8 billion, and the pace of selling by major players is accelerating.

With major capital actively avoiding risks, we should do the same—sell U.S. stocks. But after selling, how do we seize opportunities? Tomorrow marks the monthly release of the FB Finance Institute - 15th Session non-farm payroll data, which will introduce new variables to the stock market. We don't need to speculate on the market's reaction, only to recognize that it will present an excellent trading opportunity in the cryptocurrency contract market! Therefore, tomorrow morning, I'll lead all partners to seize this trading opportunity and witness our fifteenth consecutive win!

The non-farm payroll data has always presented an excellent trading opportunity in the cryptocurrency market, but its impact on U.S. stocks is far less certain.

Goldman Sachs' Scott Rubner points out that if Friday's non-farm payroll report shows weak performance, the bears will have a field day in the U.S. stock market. Commodity Trading Advisors (CTAs) and other rule-driven systematic funds are currently showing an asymmetrical downward bias over the next month. In a stable market, CTAs could sell up to $17.38 billion worth of U.S. stocks; even in an uptrend, selling pressure could still reach $3.73 billion. However, if the market declines, the sell-off could surge to $65.55 billion.

In summary, regardless of how the U.S. stock market fluctuates—whether it rises, falls, or oscillates—the major institutions are prepared to sell off significant amounts of stock. If the data disappoints, it could deliver a fatal blow to the stock market, pushing indices into deeper lows. However, those familiar with Super Data Week know that the cryptocurrency market operates like a single-answer question. We just need to find the correct answer to reap substantial returns. Tomorrow, we will continue to be data-driven and seize this opportunity.

Through yesterday's in-depth analysis, it should be clear to everyone that the future trajectory of the U.S. economy will become the most critical factor influencing the stock market. If companies eventually decide to resort to mass layoffs for survival, both the economy and the stock market will plunge into the abyss!

Today's data shows that due to the uncertain outlook for economic growth and persistent cost concerns, U.S. employers in August announced the most layoffs in five months, with the tech sector being hit hardest. Employment consulting firm Challenger reported that companies announced 75,891 layoffs last month, nearly three times that of July, marking the largest monthly increase in a year.

This further validates my point—the bull market for U.S. stocks in 2024 is over. While the stock market's bull run has ended, our journey to profits has only just begun! Now, I have customized two trading strategies for all my friends. Contact me immediately so I can provide you with a better trading plan for the future!

The U.S. stock market bull run has officially ended, and in the short term, there's a lack of strong trading opportunities. Now is the best time to sell stocks and avoid risk. However, idle funds are wasted funds. The money from your stock sales should be put to efficient use. This applies equally to those participating in the BCX subscription. Once BCX lists tomorrow, based on the progress bar, our allocated funds are set to bring sixfold returns! We will sell immediately after the listing and swiftly shift into contract trading to capitalize on the volatility from the non-farm payroll data, executing a perfect strategy transition!

Before the next round of IDO projects arrives, we'll rapidly accumulate wealth through cryptocurrency contract trading.

September's stock market? It absolute sucks, and even the crypto market is feeling the drag. Yesterday, we broke down how the job vacancy data rocked the dollar and stock indexes, and why Warren Buffett has transformed into the "Bond King." My advice?

Keep selling your stocks, turn at the red light, and grab onto the final opportunity with BCX's IDO!

BCX's IDO phase is over, and the prize allocations are in progress. If you appreciate my unbeatable strategy, then take action and vote for me! Today, I'm bringing even more powerful insights, ensuring we dominate the market by Christmas, leaving everyone else in the dust with the next quality IDO. We're here to own this game!

Maybe because it's been a hot minute since I last shared, but after yesterday's "Terminator" forecast for the stock index, my inbox has been flooded with questions about future trends and the right time to re-enter the market. I hear you—stocks are still our main focus, but the real question is: when should we jump back in? Let's break it down.

First off, why does a rate cut trigger a stock index nosedive? It boils down to three words: double edged sword. A rate cut, which normally sounds like good news, actually flips into bad news. The FB Finance Institute - 15th Session market interprets it as a sign that the good times are over. When the market cashes in on the positives, it turns into a negative, and investor sentiment starts to unravel. Plus, the Fed's decision is often a response to looming recession fears—that's the fundamental "pain" dragging down stock indices in the mid term.

How long will this drop last? And will it get worse? Absolutely. The market hasn't hit "panic mode" yet, but it's coming. If I were a short seller, I'd be doubling down on this decline, much like bulls pile into a rally. An increase in short positions usually signals that a major crash is on the horizon. So while the market is still hanging on, the smartest move right now is to step aside!

Lastly, when's the right moment to jump back into the stock market? And when's the perfect buy in opportunity? Listen up:

First, how long will this drop last? The answer lies with tech stocks. Historically, after the first rate cut, tech stocks tend to struggle for about three months like a "loser." If you haven't seen that happen yet, just wait—around Christmas is when the index will likely bottom out.

Keep an eye on $NVDA. Its trading volume is shrinking, which means the bulls are packing up and leaving. Don't expect any big moves from it in the near term. The critical thing to watch is the MA200 line (that's the one sitting way down on the chart), it's the market's long term trend "lifeline." Think of it as your GPS—it guides you on whether the market is heading up, down, or sideways.

So, the forecast is simple: wait until $NVDA stabilizes around the MA200 line. Then, check if the MACD's DIF and DEA lines show a bullish crossover. That's your signal to start thinking about re-entering the market. Got it?

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

While the stock market braces for a "Black September," the cryptocurrency space is gearing up for a "Lucky September." Wondering why? Just look at Bitcoin's track record—October has historically been a rally month for BTC, and history doesn't disappoints!

Back on August 15th, I introduced the "smile investment" strategy, a golden method for value investors: consistently invest when BTC is trading above the smile curve, and double down when it dips back into that zone. Combine that with my mentor Prof. Clark's "three years bull, one year bear" cycle, and BTC's projected target of $350,000, and what do you get? Right now is the perfect moment—BTC has returned to the smile zone!

This is a prime opportunity to buy low and position yourself for the next bull run. Not only will you grab BTC at a bargain, but you'll also maintain that winning smile all the way to the top, confidently taking the lead in the market!

Folks, let's dive into some fantastic news from the crypto world, and you'll see why this dip feels like picking up free money:

- ~ The SEC has decided not to revive the disclosure rules on hedge fund trading fees—finally, some breathing room for the crypto market!
- ~ Russia is now allowing the use of cryptocurrency in international trade. Looks like they're warming up to the "crypto money bags" trend too.
- ~ Zurich State Bank isn't staying behind, rolling out Bitcoin and crypto products, becoming a symbol of how banks are catching the crypto wave!
- ~ Metaplanet is teaming up with Japan's financial giant SBI and has been on a Bitcoin buying spree, snapping up 360 BTC like they're on a shopping spree!

 FB Finance Institute 15th Session

- ~ Data shows that U.S.'s spot Bitcoin ETF had a net inflow of 975 BTC in August, and the number of addresses holding over 100 BTC has hit 16,120—a new record!
- ~ Venezuela's president is suggesting a return to crypto. It looks like they're ready to embrace digital currency with open arms.
- ~ Losses in the crypto market dropped to a record low of $15 million in August—a historic low!
- ~ Starbucks in El Salvador is now accepting Bitcoin as payment. Grab your coffee with some crypto!
- ~ Whales are gearing up for a bull run, with an increase in large bullish options, mostly targeting the end of September and October. The future looks brighter than ever, and confidence is surging!

Listen up, folks! You think spot investments in the crypto market are the main event? Think again—that's just the tip of the iceberg.

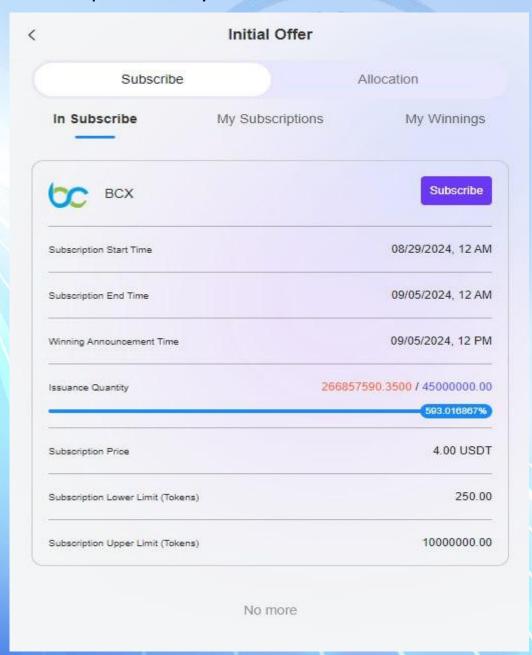

The real magic happens when you start thinking about those top tier IDOs that the exchanges are reviewing, signing, and preparing to launch.

What's the golden goose for exchanges? Fees, right? But have you ever considered that these exchanges hold the most comprehensive data? They know better than anyone when the bull market is about to roar back to life. So, what happens if these top IDOs get released just as the bull market kicks off? Imagine the flood of trading volume and transaction fees they're going to rake in!

Why? Because the profit potential from these top IDOs will draw investors in like moths to a flame. The moment those new tokens hit the market and prices skyrocket, everyone will be scrambling to get a piece. And what's the result? Investors make bank, the ICO/IDO issuers cash in, and the exchanges? They'll be rolling in it. Just like Prof. Clark said, ICOs/IDOs are the engine of the bull market!

So, here's the big question: How much did you snag from the BCX IDO? And with the even more promising QBL IDO on the horizon, how do we position ourselves to make sure we don't miss this wave of profit frenzy?

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

Alright, folks, let's get to the real meat of today's excitement—huge congrats to all the lucky winners who got in on the BCX online subscription! Guess what? Our institute's average allocation percentage blew the market averages out of the water!

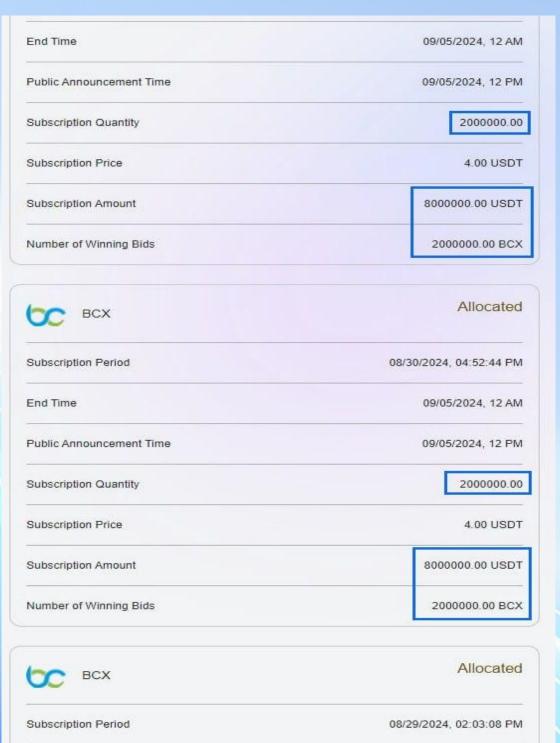

Here's the truth: First, it highlights the incredible strength of our group fund pool—a massive thank you to Prof. Clark for his tireless dedication. Second, it proves that we absolutely nailed the volume and time priority strategies. Well done, team!

The post-subscription progress is already off the charts—your original token allocation is on track to deliver over five times your initial investment. This is the magic of a top tier IDO: zero risk, high returns, and quick turnaround—it's like stumbling upon a treasure chest.

Now, with the next superstar project, QBL, about to make its debut, are we ready to go all in? You betcha! This isn't just another opportunity at the IDO table—it's your fast track to significantly boosting those Strategic Partner earnings. And let's FB Finance Institute - 15th Session be real, nobody wants to miss out on that, right?

Alright, folks, as we bask in the glory of victory, let's not kid ourselves—there are two critical issues we need to address head on:

Issue 1: Uneven Allocation Ratios

Let's be frank—our members' allocation percentages are all over the place. Some sitting below 5%, while others are enjoying over 50%. Same project, same timeframe, same training—yet the results are as vast as heaven and earth.

If your allocation ratio is under 20%, and you invested a decent amount but didn't see the expected returns, what does that tell you? It's simple: something went wrong in the process. Don't avoid the truth, face it, learn from it, and make sure you crush it next time.

DM us right now to identify what went wrong and optimize your strategy!

Issue 2: The Gap with Green VIP Channel

Yes, our BCX allocation ratio is higher than the market average, but compared to those who secured the green VIP channel?

We're talking night and day. Look at the chart above; it's part of that institutional investor's record—100% allocation ratio, jaw dropping.

This means we still have major room for improvement. Our group fund pool isn't strong enough yet, and we haven't gone all in.

Therefore securing the green channel for the next top tier project, QBL, is mission critical. Start positioning yourself now—and stop twiddling your thumbs. Other investors are moving in fast, and the market never lacks cash. Don't let limited thinking slow down your speed of making money!

So, folks, this is exactly why I was urging you all to go all in during the BCX launch—because what you miss today, is what I once missed. I've witnessed too many legends rise from top tier ICOs/IDOs, and I'm telling you, it's happening right before our eyes!

Remember my motto? Premium ICOs/IDOs are your golden keys to unlocking explosive profits, from 0 to +∞: ETH skyrocketed over 1,600,000%; BNB shot up 690,000%; ADA blasted through FB Finance Institute - 15th Session 15,000%; DOT surged 18,000%; LINK soared 48,000%; XLM gained 24,000%; TRX jumped 15,000%; EOS hit 1,600%... and the online subscription phase is where the big money really rolls in!

So what's the game plan? Listen up:

- ~ Expand your capital base immediately: Get your funds ready for the upcoming QBL IDO. This is your prime opportunity to dominate the market!
- ~ Strategic exit post BCX listing: Once BCX goes live, time your exit. I'm predicting that QBL's inflow will shake BCX's price stability—you'll need to act fast.
- ~ Capitalize on trades before QBL: Before QBL's online subscription, seize contract trading opportunities to ramp up your profits. Could tomorrow's NFP data offer a single trade profit of 500% or even 1000%? It's not just possible—it's highly probable!

Team, today's success has been nothing short of exhilarating!

Here are the key takeaways we must reinforce:

~ The stock market historically drops before and after rate cuts, with a bottom expected by the end of December. Stepping away

FB Finance Institute - 15th Session

from stocks right now is a wise move.

- ~ The crypto market's best "smile curve" setup is unfolding in September—value investors need to jump on this opportunity.
- ~ The surge in premium ICO/IDO offerings from exchanges signals that the crypto bull market is just around the corner—expect trading volume and bigger opportunities to explode.
- ~ The returns on BCX's IDO have been off the charts, and the next star project, QBL, is approaching fast. We need to be fully prepared.
- ~ The gap in allocation ratios is huge—let's reflect, analyze, and ensure we improve efficiency in the next round of investments.
- ~ While our allocation ratio is higher than the market average, we're far behind those with green VIP channel. Strengthening our fund pool to gain green channel access is the ultimate power move!
- ~ Starting today, I recommend seizing contract trading opportunities. Use the volatility from the upcoming NFP data to maximize profits and build capital before BCX goes live and QBL's online subscription opens.

Now's the time for action, team! Grab these moments, rapidly adjust your strategies, and sprint toward the next wealth peak! Don't let these opportunities slip through your fingers—show your resolve and strength, because the ones writing the legend will be us!
